

FREEDOM SUMMER 50TH

Jews across the country are thinking about Freedom Summer and the legacy of hundreds of Jewish volunteers who were among the approximately 1,000 activists to travel to Mississippi 50 years ago in order to promote social justice.

The Goldring/ Woldenberg Institute of Southern Jewish Life would like to invite you to come to Mississippi to be part of this legacy.

From June 25-29, 2014, at Tougaloo College in Jackson, Mississippi, activists, elected officials, students, scholars, and veterans of the 1964 Mississippi Freedom Summer will gather to mark Freedom Summer's 50th anniversary. The event will reunite activists of diverse backgrounds, and the ISJL is organizing a special program for Jewish volunteers who played a role in the Movement and contemporary Jewish activists who want to make a difference in the ongoing work of civil rights.

If you are interested in commemorating this historic event we invite you to join us in Jackson to:

- Honor the legacy of volunteers with a contemporary Jewish presence.
- Take part in an authentic experience in the state in which the campaign occurred.
- Show that Jewish activism is still alive and well, not just a story from 50 years ago.
